Hi Allison,

As I continue to look for my next chapter, I keep coming back to Expedia Group. I wanted to open the lines of communication with us and essentially lay all my cards on the table. Bottom line, I want to work for you and for EG. I feel like this opportunity is a great match and it excites me thinking about all this role has to offer.

I know there are some moving parts on your end, I appreciate the chair you are in and the logistics that come with it.

While patience isn't my strong suit, I do recognize that there are times where it is very much worth it to stay the course and let things play out.

I also realize there are no guarantees, but I do hope my expertise and the many intangibles I bring to the table will keep me tops on your list.

Please don't hesitate to reach out should you like to have any additional conversations during these next few weeks.

All the best,

Michael

Hi Allison,

I find myself caught in between showing how patient I can be for something I want and showing the side of me that goes out and gets what I want :-).

I remain extremely interested in this role and wanted to make sure you had no doubt in your mind about that.

I've also attached a recommendation letter from Claire Erickson. Claire was Bill Ready's COS at PayPal and was who I worked with intimately when Bill asked the Recruiting organization to execute on some audacious goals. I hope this note helps solidify that I am the person for the job. I assure you, I am a game changer and a leader who truly cares about the people I work with.

Thank you Allison,

Michael

Hi Michael,

Lisa and I were just discussing you getting back in front of Michael. Thanks for the LOR. Will review and circle back.

Best,

Michael Kascsak (He/Him) • 8:23 pm

Thank you Allison. Lisa and I did connect today. I appreciate the update and remain optimistic and patient as you continue to run the full process. Thanks again! Michael
